

<http://groups.yahoo.com/group/gpsstash/message/395>
From: "Jeremy Irish" <jeremy@t...>
Date: Sat Sep 2, 2000 10:12 pm
Subject: RE: [gpsstash] GPS Stash home page

Yesterday it looked like the site had gone down, so I sent Mike an email. I also noticed that the root of the site looks like the machine went through a reinstall. Haven't heard anything more.

I was hoping to wait until there was more functionality available, but I might as well plug Geocaching.com - All the stashes are available on the site (and hopefully current), and I added some new capabilities to help you find each stash. Some of the stuff works (like you can log a find online) but some of the administration of your own stashes doesn't work quite yet. Any input would be appreciated.

The geocaching phenomenon is starting to get too big to maintain on multiple sites - hopefully I can add some functionality to take it to the next level and make it easier to grow. I already talked to Mike Teague via e-mail and he likes the direction so far. Let me know what you think!

New capabilities:

Nearest placenames (US only - trying to get other country data) to caches
Closest caches by zip code (US only again)
All caches have their own page with mapping data.
You can log a cache online (owners of caches will be able to remove bogus logs) will be adding the ability to add your own stashes, update content, add pictures of your visits, etc.

<http://www.geocaching.com>
(it also works at www.geocashing.com - the way it sounds)

Cheers,

Jeremy